Breed Specifics

Temperament (friendly towards family, kids, strangers and other dogs)

Bulldogs are the sweetest, most stubborn, funny dog you will ever meet! They are very social and comical and do great with kids and strangers.

Health issues

Bulldogs can be prone to health issues, so do your research before you decide on this breed and buy from a breeder who health tests their breeding stock to hopefully avoid the issues that this breed can have such as breathing issues, joint issues, skin issues, eye issues, etc.

Grooming

Bulldogs are short haired but they do require grooming. They have periodic shedding periods several times a year, so a good stiff brush or curry will help to minimize shedding. Their nails need to be kept trimmed and short. Ears and tail pocket needs to be kept clean as well as facial folds.

Physical Needs (energy level, exercise needs)

The Bulldog is usually more low key than other breeds but they do need some daily exercise.

Adaptability (space needed, temperature restrictions)

The Bulldog can do well in smaller spaces and is very much an indoors dog only. They don't do well with extreme temperatures due to their short nose and stockier frame so be sure and keep them indoors.

Colors

Bulldogs come in a variety of colors, but the AKC recognized colors are Fallow, Fawn, Fawn and Brindle, Fawn and White, Fawn Brindle and White, Red, Red and White, Red Brindle, Red Brindle and White and White. And, they can come with a black mask, black tips, piebald, ticked and white markings.
